1 INTRODUCTION:

Farmer is common gender. Farmers are hard worker and cultivate agriculture products. They are managing the farm. Farmers are the backbone of the country. They cultivate the products and spreading the products to all over the country. Farmers are changing their farming systems to incorporate regenerative principles (also called, amongst other things, holistic or natural sequence farming). Indian farmers are internationally competitive and economically efficient producers, but also experience unique challenges to their wellbeing related to where they live and what they do for a living. Internationally, there is increasing recognition that measuring progress requiring monitoring how the wellbeing of people and communities is changing, as well as economic trends. This report examines the wellbeing of Indian farmers, focusing on their quality of life, how they feel about their communities, and what is happening on their farms.

2 OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY:

1. To study the farmers hard work life.
2. To easily find the farmers producer organization.

The Impact on Farmers work

- While the prices of crops have been pushed down - often even below the cost of production -the prices of inputs such as seed, fertilizers, and pesticides have gone up.
- With limited resources, farmers depend on borrowed money to purchase seeds and other inputs and to farm their land. A drop in their farm income could quickly lead to farmers owing more than they own.
